He entered at once upon an able and elaborate discussion of the subject of annexation, declaring that Richmohd was the most congested city in the United States with a population of more than 60,000.

Mr. Cannon submitted figures to show that this was true, and he read statistics bearing on the subject, comparing Richmond unfavorably with about forty others in the country about the same size. He said health conditions absolutely demanded that Richmond should extend her borders, and then he took up the her borders, and then he took up the question of homes.

"One of the prime considerations," he said, "with manufacturers desiring to come here, is whether they can secure comfortable and reasonably cheap homes for their employes."

He did not think a man could afford to spend more than one-third of his earnings for house rent, and as the average workingman got only about $700 per year, there should be homes at about $200 in his reach.

These men he said were entitled to gas, water and fire and police protection, and to close proximity to their work.

He thought the plan would help the large property owners, because values would be enhanced, but he could not see any advantage for the laboring people. He said it would be unfair to the people who had lived in the city for so many years to broaden the lines to such a great extent, and put all the improvements in the annexed territory.

Prosperity Would Follow.

Mr. Cannon spoke of the splendid natural advantages of Richmond and he said if the borders of the city were cularged and the 15,000 honest, soher clagens desiring to come in should be allowed to do so, development and industries would follow in a little while.

He said a few real estate agents and certain politicians were opposing the scheme.

Pollock Replies.

Mr. Pollock replied to Messrs. Bottoms and Pollard. He declared that annexation would inevitably result in building the homes for which the people were contending. He declared that the city was not unable, as Mr. Pollard contended, to take care of the property should it be brought in.

Mr. Pollock said he had now passed the stage of a politician and was a statesman. He had been accused by Mr. Lynch of being a politician easy of approach and his reply created great laugitter. Mr. Pollock spoke of the comparatively small cost of maintaining police and fire departments and public schools in the territory sought to be annexed, and his contention was that the city need not fear to go into it on the ground of cost. He afford to pay at least $50,000 per year on this score, when it would cost but $8,000 above the taxes derived from the new erritory.

SLEMP'S RELATIONS TO PARTY

Doing Through Son What Law Prohibits Him From Doing Himself.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., April 7.—Some emarkable literature al being disseminated by certain Republicans in Virginia these days. A week ago it was discovered that Chairman Bascon Slemp was sending to all Federal of-ficeholders in the State a letter practically assessing them for contributions to the Republican campaign fund. Following this comes the letter printed below, which is being given very general circulation, it is said, even female employes of the Government in Virginia receiving them. Women, as well as men were sent the letter from Chairman Slemp, asking them to give of their salaries to the party fund. Pollowing is a copy of the latest letter, which has been sent out:

Land Titles and Collections a Specialty.

L. P. Summers,
Counsellor at Law,
Office of
Attorney for the Commonwealth,
Abingdon, Virginia.

"Dear Sir,—Your letter of recom-mendation to hand and in reply will say that I cannot make any promises as to my deputies at this time, but in view of the wish of the President in view of the wish of the President to build up a vigorous party in Virginia, in which I fully concur. I am determined to name my deputies from men of intelligence and character, who are vigorous, aggressive fighters and vote getters for the Republican party, and no man need expect preferment from my hands unless he can produce votes.

"I want to thank you for your kindness.

The copy which came into my hands was not signed. The heading causes the belief, of course, that it comes from Mr. Summers, who has just been made collector of internal revenue for the sixth revenue district, better known as the Alexandria district. He took the place of Mr. Park Agnaw, who was deposed.

Slemp's Plan.

Alexandria district. He took the place of Mr. Park Agnew, who was deposed.

Slemp's Plan.

The letter Mr. Slemp sent to office-holders in Virginia, assessing them for party purposes, is denounced by many Republicans. The Federal law prohibits a member of ether branch of Congress or any man employed in the Civil Service from assessing Civil Service employes for political purposes. Were Representative Slemp to attempt to do what his son is doing he would be liable to heavy fine and imprisonment. But he has had his son made State chairman and the young man, in the position of "adjutant general," as one Republican expressed it to me, is able to do that which the law prohibits the father's doing.

Few people doubt that Representative Slemp is, in reality, the chairman of the Republican State Committee of Virginia. He is the only Republican member of Congress from the State, and he has not made any attempt to quiet the reports that he is the chief dispenser of patronage in Virginia. The Republican mentioned above very apily remarked that Representative Slemp, in baving his son made State chairman, and levying assessments upon Federal officeholders in Virginia, was only doing, under an alias, that which the law forbids his doing in proper person.

The truth of the whole matter is that Mr. Slemp has made the President helieve Virginia, with proper effort, can be made a Republican State. The fact that he carried Virginia is a state, He has been reminded that, while Grover Cleveland carried Virginia in 1888, only by the very small majority of 1,555, the following year, with Mahone the gubernatorial candidate, and Mr. Slemp its candidate for the Lieutenant-Governor—9, the Republican itset was defeated by 40,000 majority.

Do Not Expect It.

Republicans do not expect to carry

Do Not Expect It.

Do Not Expect It.

Republicans do not expect to carry Virginia. Virginia Republicans have confessed to in the past few weeks that they have no idea of electing a Governor. They hope to raise a lot of money, but they do not expect to see it bring victory, or help them avoid a defeat by a small margin. The best informed Republicans with whom I have talked recently do not believe Judge Lewis can be induced to run for the governor ship. He does not want to be a candidate. He would have to resign his place as district, attorney in case he entered the race, and he knows he would be leading not only a folorn hope, but a fight in which there would not be the slightest chance of victory. A month ago a Republican of Virginia who was in this city told me he had seen a letter from Judge Lewis in which he said he would accept the nomination. In the opinion of better informed men with whom I have talked, he must have misconstrued the letter.

General James A. Walker, a Republican was defeated for Congress from the Ninth District by the Republicans of the District, Republicans have twice elected Mr. Slemp. The latter seems unable to analyze General Walker's defeat or his own successes.
